A24 HOSTS RELEASE OF MINARI

Sundance award winner highlighting Korean American family set to stream on Feb. 12th

NEW YORK, NY, FEB. 9, 2021 In a new set of films to be released this year, A24 kicks off with Minari to be released Feb. 12. This highly anticipated film stars new and upcoming actor Steven Yeun, it highlights a Korean American family and the hardships that come with chasing the American Dream. Winning various awards at the Sundance Film Festival, director Lee Isaac Chung shares his life story through a cinematic and meaningful lens.

Chung explains “I just didn’t feel ready to tell the story ‘til I grew older and could understand his (father’s) perspective more” he continued “and I myself had to become a father, I feel, before I could approach this subject in this story.” Minari makes a strong statement about family and what it means to be a father supporting a family through big changes and a young son’s experience of uprooting his life at his parents’ wishes.
